Brexit is not the will of the British people – it never

Brexit is likely to cause Britain's economy and people to suffer significantly in the short to medium term, owing to profound uncertainty over the terms of divorce and the future of the UK itself. But the implications for Europe could be far worse.

Often these items don't fit into an article we're working on, so we recently started a new, occasional series called "Brexit Bites". We generally won't have time to do a lot of work on these pieces of information, but they will be things which we think you might nevertheless like to see.

Brexit news using facts from official sources in the UK

Few who are not deeply partisan would dispute three propositions. The first is that Brexit is not turning out as promised. The second is that it is likely to weaken the UK economically. The third is that the future unity of the UK seems imperilled by all Brexit options currently on the table ...
